It was a short day because we were on the road for a long time and we arrived late at the camp site so we set up camp in a hurry and prepared supper which was chicken curry, we then discussed about the night shift and how it we were working in groups each group was allowed 2 hours per shift me and my brother were together, so no pressure. The night came quickly. She started night shift very anxious and asked night shift petrified, and paranoid.

I woke up tired and confused because me and my brother were too long on night shift. I woke up ~~feeling~~ very humble, and hungry. I then ~~ate~~ ate granolla porridge in a cup and packed my equipment. ~~and~~ we then ~~left~~ hitched to the new campsite. When we arrived we were all tired we then ate tuna and bread for lunch. By sunset everyone's knots were set and ~~we~~ we were busy making supper which was biltong and macaroni stew - which was lovely.

I woke up feeling very happy because I was hungry during the night and was ~~gravy~~ graving granola. We ate breakfast then the guide told us we will not be hiking today we will be sleeping on the same camp site. Everyone was ~~relieved~~ relieved. The guide then ~~told~~ told us we will be taking a walk and they showed us traditional tools and we conversed about the different animals. We ate lunch on the go and went ~~back~~ to the side. We ate supper and began night shift.

I woke up feeling happy because it was almost time to go ~~home~~ home. I ate granola and packed my equipment. We then hiked to the next campsite ~~at~~ I was happy because the camp site was on a cliff close to the river with a beautiful beautiful view of dolphins. We ate supper and ~~stayed~~ stayed up late enjoying the last night.
